SHRI VIREN J. SHAH:
SHRI PRAMOD MAHAJAN:

Will the Minister of FINANCE be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government has seen a report in the Pioneer of July 21, 1995 under the heading, "Government makes a mockery of MoU on treasury bills;"

(b) the facts in respect of the above report;

(c) the details of MoU signed between the Government and the Reserve Bank of India to limit the issuance of ad hoc treasury bills;

(d) the value of ad hoc 91 day treasury bills issued by RBI to the Central Government on June 16, 1995 and whether by July 14, 1995 the amount of ad hoc treasury bills issued by the RBI had risen to the level of Rs. 16065 crores.

(e) whether RBI had cautioned Government on 19th July, speaking at Madras against the rising deficit and borrowings; and

(f) if so, the response of Government thereto?

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE (SHRI MANMOHAN SINGH): (a) Yes Sir.

(b) The report refers to an increase in Government financing through ad-hoc Treasury Bills as detailed in part (d) to the answer.

(c) An agreement was signed on 9th September, 1994 between the Government of India and the Reserve Bank of India with the aim of phasing out automatic recourse to RBI financing for the Budget. The details of the Agreement are:

(i) The net issue of ad hoc Treasury Bills at the end of the financial year 1994-95 should not exceed Rs. 6,000 crore.

(ii) The net issue of ad hoc Treasury Bills should not exceed Rs. 9,000 crore for more than 10 continuous working days at any time during the financial year 1994-95;

(iii) If the net of ad hoc Treasury Bills exceeded Rs. 9,000 crore for more than 10 continuous working days at any time during the year, the Reserve Bank of India will automatically reduce the excess level of ad hoc Treasury Bills by auctioning Treasury Bills or floatation of Government of India dated securities.

(iv) Similar ceiling for the net issue of ad hoc Treasury Bills would be stipulated for 1995-96 and 1996-97 and from 1997-98, the system of ad hoc Treasury Bills would be totally discontinued.

For the year 1995-96 it was stipulated that the net issue of ad hoc Treasury Bills should not exceed Rs. 5,000 crore at the end of 1995-96. The within-the-year ceiling for 1995-96 was fixed at Rs. 9,000 crore.

(d) to (f) The net issue of ad hoc Treasury Bills over the end of March 1995 level as on June 16, 1995 amounted to Rs. 13,635 crore. It came down to Rs. 8,895 crore as on June, 24, 1995. However, it rose to Rs. 16,965 crore as on July 14, 1995. The reasons for the large increase in ad hoc Treasury Bills in the first four months of 1995-96 are the relatively low volume of net market borrowing of the Government in this period.
